Baby Mine!

Every mother feels an indescribable dread of the pain and danger attending upon the most critical period of her life.
Becoming a mother should be a source of joy
to all, but the suffering and danger of the ordeal make its anticipation one of misery.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the remedy which relieves women of the great pain and suffering incident to maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is removed by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer dependent or gloomy; nervousness nausea and other distressing conditions are avoided, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour, are obviated by the use of MOTHER'S FRIEND. It is a blessing to women.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment of settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stings when it is positive evidence of kidney trouble.
Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it,
or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

MARCH 20TH.

Gov. Bradley Names that as the Day of Jackson Walling's Execution.

They Have Just Thirty-Two
More Days to Breathe the

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 16.—Jackson and Walling, the murderers of Pearl Bryan, will get their just punishment at last. They must die on the gallows. Every effort to save their necks has been exhausted and they are doomed.

Gov. Bradley acted upon the case yesterday and the suspense is over to-day for he has fixed March 20, as the date of the two murderers' execution.

The news was telegraphed at once to the Newport jail, where Jackson and Walling were waiting in fear and trembling.

The action of Gov. Bradley will give the two fiends what many persons think they should have had long since.

Death warrants were issued this morning, and the final preparations for the hanging of Jackson and Walling will commence at once. It is understood Sheriff Plummer has already secured a gallows on which to jerk the two brutes to eternity.

Judge DuRelle's response in the Jackson and Walling cases overruling
the petition for a rehearing was mis-laid in the court of appeals office.

It is believed to have been stolen.
Should it not be recovered another copy will be furnished from Stenographer Brown's notes.

Carroll Walcutt has been appointed special messenger to take the death warrant to Sheriff Plummer.

To Cure Lameness.
A subscriber at Trenton, Ky., asks
the following:

"I have a four-year-old horse that goes lame periodically; can detect no tender or heated spot about body or limbs; no swelling. After traveling a mile or two the lameness almost disappears. What is the remedy?"

It is impossible to diagnose the trouble with certainty on this meager description. Indeed a personal examination would be necessary to accurately. The symptoms given indicate what is known as "Navicular disease," (sometimes called grogginess).
An inflammation of the Navicular bone or of the cartilage on its inferior surface. It is probably one of the most fertile causes of lameness, and also the most difficult to treat or control.
Concussion and rheumatic predisposition are said to be the chief causes of the disease, though improper shoeing may largely contribute.

The remedy suggested is: Remove the shoe and allow the frog to come to the ground. Stand in cold water or apply cold, wet swabs for several hours daily. Poultice at night. If,
after two or three weeks, the disease is not conquered, blister the coronet slightly, and if this does not bring relief, seton the frog. Some relief has been obtained by using a hoot or ornament composed of equal parts of tar, Burbundy pitch and mutton suet.

That Democratic Majority.

Of all the assinine forces yet conjured up by politics and inspired by the working vinegar of hell we beg to be commended to that maudlin aggregation of fat headed freaks and fin pesele bambazlers known to lookers as the Democratic majority of the Tennessee Legislature. This conglomerated menagerie of sweet-scented, silver tongued, silence-slay-ing, seraphic solons present, altogether the finest spectacle of job-lot nincompoops that has ever yet been gotten together in this State outside the asylum and penitentiary. And their photographs should by all means be preserved after the lobby shall have finished with them, as curios for posterity and an impressive warn-
unborn.

With the mugs of monkeys, the brains of bullfrogs, the bray of jack-asses and the principle of professional pie patriots, these pyrotechnic-performing Peterbasters are daily constructing the most charming volume of perdium history that was ever perfected at the cost of an honest people and the everlasting shame of a great commonwealth. This most wise brigade of Coxey catwalkers, this of er sweet galaxy of gory-grand laws makers, this undimmed constellation of human evergreens is a fitting finale to the fizzle-edged fiasco of Democracy's rule and damnation's ruin in Tennessee. They come as a feeble farewell finish to the inglorious reign of an ignoble party that is dead with its own dastard doing and damned with its own debauchery, stupefied in the blood of conscience and lost in a sea of sin—the last harsh note to break the sweet, enchanting spell of melody, the dying echo of a poor old play-out song. Their days of ballot-box kleptomaniacs are numbered, their epoch of flim-flam supremacy is done, their era of party bossism and election hoodlumism is one of the last fading memories of a by-gone age, where political honesty was a thing unknown and public decency was a lost art. They know, and we do too, they know it.

Yes, and they know more than this. They know that Tennessee today is as solidly and as safely Republican as hell is Democratic; they know that if the voice of the people as honestly expressed at the polls had prevailed in Tennessee their miserable body would be today made up of Republicans, honest men and intelligent law-makers, and that instead of a second class fiddler a first-class statesman would occupy the executive office; they know that if justice had succeeded to her own two years ago
H. Clay Evans would have been Governor of this proud State instead of the poor old booze-fighting imbecile who had just retired without credit and without honor; they know that had the Republican party been in power here through all these years Tennessee would now be enjoying the high-noon zenith of a rich prosperity, instead of being held up to the scorn and pity of the world by their own beloved chairman as the worst governed State in the Union; they know too, that if the devil had his dues paid, purgatory would this minute be crowded with Tennessee Democrats.

All these things they know, and all these things the voters of this State know and this gang of political moun-tebankers are right now enjoying the last spoils that will come down their side of the pike in Tennessee.
Let them make the most of it, and let them understand that their jig is up, their goose is cooked, their cake is dough, and their coffin is ready to receive its worthless deposit of political stiffs, for when this poor session of the Legislature shall have been fritted away in their own artistic fashion they must go home and disappear in the cornfields of obscurity forever, to seek in vain the fleeting shadow of their lost consciences and murdered hopes.—[Nashville Republican.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more
exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt.
A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial

Ex State Senator Carroll, heretofore
a leading free silver politician of the blue grass section, has come out in an
views, and will hereafter favor a protective tariff. He qualifies it by saying he is satisfied that protection
half dose of Republicanism begins to get its work in with him, he will begin to have patriotic vision, and see his way clear to take the balance of the dose and become a full fledged Republican, financier and tariff questioner altogether. He will also understand that the farmer not only needs pro-

fewer farmers and more home consumers of the farmer's products. Let

DUESTROW HANGED.

His Money Could Not
Save Him From Merited Punishment.

Hanged at Noon Tuesday
Week.

en Fit He Murdered His Wife and Child.

ity Dodge—Failed at Every Turn.

Dr. Arthur Duestrow, the St. Louis millionaire wife and child murderer, was hanged Tuesday week for the crime he committed three years ago.
On the 13th day of February 1894,

while in a drunken fit, Dr. Duestrow entered his handsome residence and shot to death his wife and child. The crime was witnessed by a servant.

After the killing Duestrow surrendered himself to the authorities and claimed that the killing was accidental. He told many different stories as to how it happened. The people were enraged over the matter and determined that justice should be done though he was a man of wealth.

has been a notable one. The case is
Missouri Criminal Court. Four times it has been gone over. Duestrow employed the finest array of lawyers in the State. They summoned to their aid medical science and tried to show, by minutely tracing the family history, that the prisoner was insane. The stand taken was that he was a victim of sub-acute hallucinations. Medical experts and lawyers wrangled for days in court-rooms before wearied juries over the scientific aspects of the case, and every inch of ground, legal or scientific, was stubbornly fought.

Eloquence, skill, learning, wealth,
all were brought to the aid of Arthur Duestrow. But his crime had so wrought the public mind against him that all these have been of no avail
and though possessed of a million dollars, he has paid the penalty of his crime.

His property after death goes to his sister, Hulda Duestrow. Since his crime she has not only refused to go to see him, but has refused to advance any money. Duestrow's attorneys have been able so far to spend only the interest, and not the principal of his estate, and may now find it impossible to collect their fees.

FUNNY "ADS."

Some of the Peculiar Things
London People Want.

Curiously worded advertisements, which are funny without intent, are common in London papers, it would seem. An English periodical offered a prize for the best collection of such announcements, and the following is the result:

"Wanted—Good boys for punching."
"Respectable widow wants washing for Tuesday."
"Wanted—Experienced nurse for bottled baby."
"A boy who can open oysters with reference."
"Wanted—An organist and a boy to blow the same."
"Bull Dog for Sale—Will eat anything, very fond of children."
"Furnished apartments, suitable for gentleman with folding doors."
"Wanted—A boy to be partly outside and partly behind the counter."
"For Sale—A piano forte the property of a musician with carved legs."
"Widow in comfortable circumstances wishes to marry two sons."
"Wanted; For the summer, a cottage for a small family with good drainage."
"Annual Sale Now On; Don't go elsewhere to be cheated; come in here."
"A lady wants to sell her piano, as she is going abroad in a strong frame."
"Wanted; A room by two gentlemen about thirty feet long and twenty feet broad."
"Wanted; By respectable girl her passage to New York; willing to take care of children and a good sailor."
"Lost; A collie dog by a man on Saturday answering to Jim, with a brass collar around his neck and muzzle."
"To be disposed of, a small phae-ton, the property of a gentleman with a moveable headpiece as good as new."
"Lost; Near Highgate Archway, an umbrella belonging to a gentleman with a bent rib and a bone handle."
"Mr. Brown, furrier, begs to announce that he will make up gowns, caps, etc., for ladies out of their own skin."

"Go to Smith's for fresh Jerry butter. Guaranteed to be strictly all wool."
"Wanted to exchange a fine dun-colored, short horned piano, perfectly gentle for an upright cow in good tune."
"Stubbs & Tubbs, dealers in green hides, rags, scrap iron, etc. Meals at all hours."
"Reward: Of ten dollars will be paid for the arrest and detention of one of the most desirable residences in town. When last heard from was working on a steamboat in Alabama."
"Get your meals at the Snide House. Fresh steak and hash every thirty days, made of the finest corrugated steel and warranted to last a lifetime."
"Some very artistic fresco work has just been done on the interior of Judge Hamp Rollins, who was again elected Justice of the Peace last week.
The last is a copy of an inscription painted on a board which adorns

Marvelous Results.
From a letter written by Rev. J.
Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract:
"I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe.
Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at

The President's Daily Routine Ex-President Harrison has written of a "Day With the President at His Desk," for the March Ladies' Home Journal. The article is said to be singularly interesting in the detail with which it describes the wearisome routine of the President. It is said that General Harrison, in this article, has delivered himself with great directness and vigor, relative to the annoyance that are visited upon a Chief Executive by persistent office-seekers, and he suggests a unique plan, by which the President's burden in that direction could be greatly lightened, and he benevolently devoted more attention to more important matters. A feature of the article that will have a timely interest to those ambitious to serve the country under the incoming administration, describes very fully how the President makes appointments to office. "A Day With the President at His Desk" is unique in being the first time that the daily life of the President has been described by one who has filled the ex-
and domestic life of the President by General Harrison will follow in successive issues of the Journal.

OBJECT LESSON.

The Chemical Composition of the Human Body.

An Interesting and Instructive Exhibit in the National Museum.

In the room of the National Museum devoted to Materia Medica there has been placed a series of preparations which attract a very great degree of interest from those who stop to read the printed notices.

It illustrates very clearly the analytical and scientific tendencies of the present age. The average man is five feet eight inches high, and weighs one hundred and fifty-four pounds.

Scientists determined to analyze all parts of the human body, find out what were its constituent elements
and how much of each was present.

They have finally demonstrated that the following elements are present: Gases, oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen, chlorine and fluorine.
Solids, Metal, iron, potassium, calcium, sodium and magnesium.
Solids, non-metals, carbon, phosphor-ous and sulphur.

In this exhibit these thirteen elements are shown in glass jars arranged in a row upon a shelf, each jar bearing a label containing a statement of the name of the element, and amount of the same to be found in an average human body.

For the gases, of course, only a proportionate amount of the elements is shown, 1-10,000, for example, of oxygen. The amount of carbon is
square; calcium by a cube 4 in.
square; and sulphur by a piece about the size of a hen's egg.

about twenty sticks of phosphorous a half inch in diameter, and three inches long. They are kept under water to prevent their igniting, as this element very easily takes fire when exposed to the air—an ordinary summer temperature.

The potassium and sodium are preserved under naphtha for the same reason. If either one of these elements should come into contact with water they would instantly take fire, so great is the affinity for these two elements when in their pure state for

pieces of wire in a small phial.

show the amount of each element in pounds and fractions to be found in a human being weighing 154 pounds: Oxygen . . . . . 97.20
Carbon . . . . . 31.10

Beware Of Mercury!

Mr. Henry Roth, of 1948 South 9th Street, St. Louis, was given the usual mercurial treatment for contagious blood poison. He was twice pronounced cured, but the disease returned each time, he was seized with rheumatic pains, and red lumps and sores covered his body.

"I was in horrible fix" he says, "and the more treatment I received, the worse I seemed to get.
A New York
specialist said he could cure
me, but his treatment did me no good whatever. I was stiff and full of pains, my left arm was useless so that I was unable to do even the lightest work. This was my condition when I began to take S. S. S., and a few bottles convinced me that I was being benefitted.
I continued the medicine, and one dozen bottles cured me sound and well.
My system was under the effects of mercury, and I would soon have been a complete
wreck but for S. S. S." S. S. S., (guaranteed purely vegetable) is the only cure for real blood diseases. The mercurial treatment of the doctors always does more harm than good.

riod of her life.
its anticipation one of misery.

women of the great pain and suffering incident to maternity; this
mon to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. It is a blessing to woman.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

neys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble.
of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge
or bad effects following use of liquor,
medicine you should have the best.

MARCH 20TH.

Gov. Bradley Names that
tion.

doomed.

to-day for he has fixed March 20, as the date of the two murderers' execution.

trembling.

long since.

ing will commence at once. It is un-

Should it not be recovered another
grapher Brown's notes.

To Cure Lumbago.

the following:
limbs; no swelling. After traveling a mile or two the lameness almost

description. Indeed a personal examination would be necessary to accu-
ease," (sometimes called grogginess).

frequent causes of lameness, and also

Concussion and rheumatic predisposition are said to be the chief causes

hours daily. Poultice at night. If,

That Democratic Majority.

to be commended to that mandarin
fin pascible bamboozlers known to toolkillers as the Democratic majority
unborn.

With the uugs of monkeys, the brains of bullbats, the bray of jack-

ple patriots, these pyrotechnic-performing Peterbushers are daily construct-
commonwealth. This most vile brigade of Coxey catwailers, this of sweet galaxy of gory-grand law-
to the fizzle-edged fiasco of Democracy's rule and damnation's ruin
its own dastard doing and dammed with its own debauchery, stupefied in the blood of conscience and lost in a
played-out song. Their days of ballot-box kleptomania are numbered,
was a lost art. This they know, and well do they know it.

prevailed in Tennessee their misera-
of Republicans, honest men and intelligent law-makers, and that instead of a second class fiddler a first-class
H. Clay Evans would have been Gov-
too, that if the devil had his due purgatory would this minute be crowded with Tennessee Democrats.

All these things they know, and
side of the pike in Tennessee.

lican.

Electric Bitters.

bilious fevers. No medicine will cure

lieve in work with him, he will believe in have patriotic vision, and see
altogether. He will also understand
ly, he always gets the benefits of a
others follow him, while the doors are open.

DUESTROW HANGED.

ishment.

on Fit He Murdered His

ery Turn.

Dr. Arthur Duestrow, the St. Louis
On the 13th day of February 1894,

claimed that the killing was acciden-
tal. He told many different stories

hallucinations. Medical experts and lawyers wrangled for days in court-rooms before wearied juries over the scientific aspects of the case,

all were brought to the aid of Arthur
his crime.

vance any money. Duestrow's attor-
only the interest, and not the principal of his estate, and may now find

London People Want.

Curiously worded advertisements,
seem. An English periodical offered a prize for the best collection of such announcements, and the following is the result:

Marvelous Results.

pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives
Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe.
would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; was quick in its work and highly satisfac-

Ex-President Harrison has written of "A Day With the President at His Desk," for the March Ladies' Home Journal. The article is said to be singularly interesting in the detail with
that General Harrison, in this article,
anoyance that are visited upon a
dens in that direction could be greatly lightened, and he bennabled to devote more attention to more important matters. A feature of the article
cessive issues of the Journal.

OBJECT LESSON.

Museum.

In the room of the National Mus-
tions which attract a very great deal of interest from those who stop to read the printed notices.

pounds.

and how much of each was present.

chlorine and fluorine.

cium, sodium and magnesium.

us and sulphur.

square; calcium by a cube 4 in.

about twenty sticks of phosphorus a
summer temperature.

water they would instantly take fire,

pounds and fractions to be found in a human being weighing 154 pounds:

Carbon . . . . . 31.10
Hydrogen . . . . . 15.20 Nitrogen . . . . . 3.80 Calcium . . . . . 3.80 Phosphorus . . . . . 1.75 Chlorine . . . . . .25
Fluorine . . . . . .22
Sulphur . . . . . .22
Potassium . . . . . .18 Sodium . . . . . .16
Magnesium . . . . . .11
Iron . . . . . .01

Beware Of Mercury!

Mr. Henry Roth, of 1848 South 9th
blood-poison. He was twice pronounced cured, but the disease returned each
ered his body.

"I was in a hor-
more treatment I received, the worse I
me no good.

whatever. I was stiff and full of pains, my left arm was useless so that I was unable to do even the lightest work. This was my condition when I began to take S. S. S., and a few bottles convinced me that I was being benefited. I continued the medicine, and one dozen bottles cured me sound and well. My system was under the effects of mercury, and I would soon have been a complete

I submit my defeat to Mr. G. D. Royal, whom I deem worthy as the nominee of our party and I feel he will meet with success in November, 1897. In my canvass I met many friends whom I feel grateful for their kindness. Yours, J. G. WILSON.

Ohio County Wedding.

Miss Lillie E. Hickey, daughter of Mr. Tom Hickey, a well-to-do farmer of Adaburg, Ohio county, was married February 18th. at the home of her parents to Mr. H. Shown, of Beda, Ohio county. This was one of the prettiest home country weddings that has taken place for some time. The home was decorated in plants and ferns for the occasion. After the ceremony the bride and groom left for the home of the groom's parents, where they enjoyed a wedding supper. A young couple are both of popular Ohio county families. They will make their home with the groom's parents. The bride is a niece of Mrs. B. A. Ford, 1105 Walnut street.—[Owensboro Messenger.]

Mr. A. D. White has returned from Evansville, where he had been to look after some goods which our merchants had on the barge when the Peankishaw sunk a few days since. While in Evansville Mr. White looked into the probability of having another boat put in Rough River right away. He saw several of the boat men around Evansville and reports that we will soon have another boat in our stream. Server Bros. will put another boat on the line or else someone else will be ready to go to work.

Mr. McDowell Fair has sold his interest in the firm of Fair Bros. & Co., to his partners and will in a few days open up a complete line of goods in the house formerly occupied by the above mentioned firm. The firm will be J. E. Fogle & Co., and with the experience and business ability of each member we predict for them a successful business career. Mr. Fogle was in business in Hartford for several years and is a polite, affable gentleman, while Mr. Fair is thoroughly acquainted with the trade of the Green River Country. It will be a strong firm.

We do not intend to tell you about the weather, but since the Republican candidates have quit visiting us and the convention has passed, we have had some very rainy weather and plenty of mud. Can you tell a fellow yell for his man now. We have two men, true blue Republicans from way back, and we would be glad to see one of the two nominated and elected as our Representative. The gentleman spoken of is Esqr. W. I. Rowe, of Centertown, a good honest farmer whose mind is filled with thoughts of goodness for his countrymen and the Republican party. And the other man is H. H. Davis, of Point Pleasant, a school teacher by profession. Either of these men we think would make an excellent representative, but we do not know that either will announce, or make the race. We are ready to roll our sleeves up high and work for the success of the entire ticket placed in the field by our convention. And if rolling our sleeves up, will not suffice, then we will take a tuck or two on our trousers. Let us leave no gaps open, nor leave anything out of shape, but make a sure, steady fire all along the line and the victory is ours. U. S.

For your Protection.—Catarrh "cures" in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain Mercury or Iodine or Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by cold and damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages. Cold in the head, if repeatedly neglected, results in catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug.

Mr. Lonnie Tweddel has built a bicycle boat, which he uses to ride in Rough River. It is a very easy boat to handle and he can make good time on it. Mr. A. L. Nall was skimming the surface of the water a few days ago on it when he became tangled in some drift and the boat sunk with him. Some boys near by in a skiff rescued him after he was thoroughly soaked in water.

It is indeed seldom that a town the size of Hartford is treated to a week of genuine enjoyment by so large a troupe as the one of Col. Clint G. Ford, but such has been the case this week. Beginning Monday night the Company played "Risen from the Ashes," the great sensational Comedy Drama in five acts, which was depicted in its most thrilling manner. Tuesday night the Company played "Rip Van Winkle," which was perfect in rendition and all the characters were brought out in the most soul stirring manner. "Lost in London" for Wednesday night was worthy the attention of everybody. "An American Hero" was played last night, and Saturday night he will present the great play, "Damon and Pythias."

Representative Skinner of North Carolina, in speaking of Senator Pritchard's re-election, stated that the Populists gave him their support with the full understanding that he was to support a Protective Tariff measure. He said that the Populists recognized that the election of Major McKinley meant that the majority of the voters believed that the cure for hard times lay in a return to the Protective policy. We hope that the Free-Traders who think that the extra session of Congress should devote its attention to other questions than the Tariff will ponder upon this. Boy Orator Bryan, also, may find food for reflection in it to help him in making his plans for the campaign of 1900. Mr. Cleveland and his Secretary of the Treasury might perhaps find it profitable, too, or, at least, suggestive. [Ex.]

The Evil of Cheap Labor.

I cannot fail to remember that one thing which stands between your labor and the labor of Europe—the one thing that stands between your workshops and those of the old world is a wise, patriotic, American Protective policy. From Major McKinley's Veranda Speeches.

This remark of Major McKinley's was greeted with cries of "Right you are. And right he is, even the Free-Traders have to admit. They claim that the American laborer does not need anything to stand between him and the foreign workman. But the laborer himself, who knows more facts, if less about theory, has a different idea. He has been thrown in contact with the cheap labor of Europe which has come to this country to better its condition, and he sees how they are willing to live even here, and for what miserable wages they are willing to work. He knows that he can not meet such conditions and keep his self-respect, or even keep body and soul together. This much he knows: That these cheap laborers are just as dangerous to him in their own countries as they are in this country, unless some barrier is placed between him and them, he has begun to realize since partial Free-Trade has made that a fact, too. As Major McKinley said, the only barrier which can effectually stand between him and the pauper labor of Europe, is a Protective Tariff. The American workman has come to realize that fact, too, and facts are right in his line. All these facts give rise to one more fact, viz., the passing of Free-Trade. [Ex.]

The silverite oligarchy of Tennessee has got drunk on fraud to vomit one of the blackest crimes against representative government that this century has seen. Napoleon was never more of a dictator than Tennessee's chief executive will be under the infamous Tennessee election law. It makes the State a distinctively one man affair. General Bob can now say with as much propriety as the French Monarch: "The State, woe I am the State." But what better could we expect of Governor Bob? He may practice and preach open and unblinking corruption at the ballot box until his eloquent voice is hushed, and he could never, with all the fertility of his resources and vast experiences, conceive and commit a graver fraud than the one to which he owes his present term of office. But good men may rest easy; this can not last for aye. The calf is already tangled in the halter; give him a little more rope and he will hang himself. It is only a question of time, and apparently a short time, when disgust and loathing, righteous indignation and a regard for decency will bury the genial gentlemen and his party in the pit they have dug for themselves. [Ex.]

A WALL THAT WOMEN CANNOT SCALE.

A woman may fall in love with a man, But then she can't tell him so; There is an unwritten law that says you must wait. For the man is the one to say "go."

Could you stand them all up side by side in a row? Women could then speak of choice, As it is you must wait till he knocks at your door. Then only then have you a voice

Suppose you know one whom you love and respect, Would you dare to be the first to say so? Your heart might say yes, there can not be wrong? But the world! why, the world would say no.

So the choice in life are all for the men, And the women too play second part. She the refused, but he has the choice In the race 'tis man nath the start. The man whom you love may never come near. O! woman, where is your choice? He dreams not of you or else he would come; You must wait saith the great social voice.

How different with men is the mating of hearts; Their rights come first and they choose. They have the world before them for choice, But woman accepts or refuses. JESSE PHILLIPS. Earlington, Ky.

To the Primitive or Sound Money Democrats of Ohio County.

GENTLEMEN:—By reason of the political revolution through which the country has passed in the last year we have been separated from both of the predominating parties of the country, and yet holding, as we do, most sacredly to the faith of the original Democracy, as being both unalterably and immutably true, and being fixed by our Constitutions, convictions of right in the faith of the immortality of our principles, and confidently believing, as we do, that these principles must and will ultimately prevail, and that they embody the future hope of our beloved country, seems to suggest that we should have a meeting at an early date to consult as to our duty in the matter of selecting local officers at the approaching November election. Organization is absolutely necessary if we would enjoy harmony and have conceit of action of what we may conceive to be our duty as citizens and true Democrats. While it may be true, that it will be beyond our power to elect a ticket composed of our own party, there are two things we can do: We can adhere to our principles like the honest men that we are, and we can, by organization, determine what individuals of the contending parties shall hold the offices of the county for the next ensuing terms. Hence we suggest that we get together and determine what course we shall pursue. Let us hear from you forthwith. A SOUND MONEY DEMOCRAT.

A Point To Remember.

If you wish to purify your blood you should take a medicine which cures blood diseases. The record of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla proves that this is the best medicine for the blood ever produced. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures the most stubborn cases and it is the medicine for you to take if you blood is impure.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pill; assist digestion, cure headache. 25 cents.

The Farson Won.

By a vote of 197 to 91 the house decided that the Rev. N. T. Hopkins is entitled to the seat in congress from the tenth Kentucky district now occupied by Joe M. Kendall. Mr. Kendall has drawn all of his salary for this session save two weeks, and by the house's decision Mr. Hopkins will have to be paid $11,800. This case has been well decided, and above all, the good salary goes to a worthy man. Mr. Hopkins fought his case hard and he is to be congratulated upon his victory. That miserable Clark county muss was sufficient to give it to him it nothing more.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant. 40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Messages of to-day to the Men of To-morrow.

Ignoble, surely, the ambition that centers in parade, splashes, splurges and show. But even the love of flattery and pagentry, had as it is, can not compare in disastrous results with the spirit of lawlessness which sometimes rules despotically over the minds of the young.

To not a few of those who shall be the men of to-morrow, the chief of good, the good for which they thirst, is simply independence and irresponsibility. They would have no scepter over them, no governing principle in them—nothing, indeed, that can be recognized as endowed with sovereign authority. They desire to live for their own gratification, unanswerable to anyone, and from the first are impressions, self-willed and reckless.

All restraint they denounce, all wholesome regulations they despise, and they constantly fret and chafe against every moral or social hindrance to their self-indulgence. They desire to be free. This is their ambition. All bonds they would break. They would assert themselves; would be uncontrolled and unhampered by conventionalities or by courts. Their ignoble ambition is to be out-laws in broadcloth, cared for and ministered unto by civilization.

It should not be overlooked that the disposition to break through the settled order by which the individual is ruled in his own interest, and to set at naught that divine something in him called "conscience" can only lead to an anarchical career and to blighted hopes. This was realized at an opportune moment by a friend of Dr. Paley, who became the great Divine and Scientist, when a careless, tippling student at Christ Church College, Cambridge. About three o'clock in the morning when the future author and philosopher was preparing to retire, after an evening wasted, a knock disturbed him, and a youth entered and began to talk in an excited manner: "Paley I have come to talk with you; I could not sleep; because I am forced to think about you. You know who I am, I have plenty of money, and it does not matter what I do at college. I can afford a life of indolence, but you cannot, and you have a good head and I have not. Now, I have come to tell you that if you waste your time with us worthless fellows, I'll cut you, and will call you a friend no more." The reproach came like a thunder bolt. All poor Paley could do was in a dazed kind of way to answer, "Thank you," but that moment terminated his recklessness and waywardness. He bent his neck to the yoke, submitted to discipline and became a star of the first magnitude in the literary and religious worlds, glorifying God with his marvelous intellect. In further illustrating our subject, next week we will introduce Admiral David Farragut, who also narrowly escaped total wreckage by indulgence in vicious habits in early life. If we can gain the ear of the "men and women of to-morrow," who read this first number, of what is designed to be a series, of short articles in this paper for several weeks. We will try to make the observations and experiences of a long life, profitable to those who will take time to read and think. C.

CURED AT 73 YEARS.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure Victorious. No other medicine can show such a record. Here is a veritable patriarch, 73 years of age, with strong prejudices to overcome, who had Heart Disease 15 years. He took the New Heart Cure and is now sound and well.

SAMUEL O. STONE, Grass Lake, Mich., Dec. 28, 1894. I have been troubled with heart disease 15 years or more. Most of the time I was so bad I was not able to go out alone as dizzy spells would cause fainting. I had severe palpitation, shortness of breath and sudden pains that rendered me helpless. All physicians did for me was to advise keeping quiet. In August last I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. I found the medicine was a God-send. I have now used four bottles in all and am feeling entirely well. I am 73 years of age and have held a grudge against patient medicines all my life, but I will not allow this to prevent giving my testimony to the great cure your valuable remedy has wrought in me. I do this to show my appreciation of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. SAMUEL O. STONE. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at 25c a bottle, or for $5, or by mail, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

LINCOLN FARM.

A Little Chat in Sunday's Courier-Journal by a Staff Correspondent.

A. W. Dennett, the New York man who purchased the Lincoln birthplace near Hodgenville, Ky., is anxious to sell it to the Government, and an effort has been made to secure a congressional appropriation of $50,000 for this purpose. Mr. Dennett paid $3,000 for the farm of 112 acres, but has spent several thousand more in improving the land, parking the ravines and in fencing. The recent revival of interest in the life and martyrdom of the great war President has caused hundreds of people to journey to Hodgenville the past year in search of Lincoln relics, and as a natural result many spurious ones have been palmed off by the thrifty farmers living in the vicinity of the farm. I am told an old spinning wheel that was never even on the Lincoln place was sold for twenty-five cents each. There are no real Lincoln relics about Hodgenville I found a rudely made iron candlestick that had been plowed up near the Lincoln cabin, and might have been made by the President's father, who was a sort of tinker and had a small blacksmith's forge in his yard. The nearest approach to genuine relics that can be or have been obtained are articles owned by the Greal family, who occupied the Lincoln farm for three-quarters of a century. A Chicago gentleman who visited the farm with me purchased a beautiful old-time bed-quilt of intricate design made by a member of the Greal family on the Lincoln place years ago. I was quite content to negotiate for the old candlesticks and snufflers that were supposedly made by Lincoln's father.

Richard Greal, who probably took up his residence on the tract of land some time after the Lincolns left or possibly earlier, was a study, intelligent pioneer of some means. He spent all of his life on the farm, dying there twelve years ago. He was well acquainted with Thos. Lincoln, and it is a local tradition that he often assisted the struggling family. Thos. Lincoln was away from home at the time little Abe was born, and it is related that the family was in dire distress, with little or nothing in the house to eat. Neighbors at once came to the assistance of the young mother and one old man told me that it was the Greals who sent the sack of flour and others necessities to help out the little family until the father's return. A daughter of Richard Greal, the wife of Henry J. Cissell, lives on the adjoining farm, and during a recent visit to Hodgenville, I paid her a visit to see what she remembered of the Lincoln. I found her a very intelligent, middle-aged woman of easy manners and a good conversationalist, and she told me that she was born and that she had spent all of her life on the Lincoln farm. She said that her father knew the Lincolns well, but she did not remember them. She said that most of the things written about Lincoln's early life in Kentucky were purely fictitious, and that all of the Lincoln relics taken from LaRue county were spurious. The Lincolns were very, very poor people, ordinary settlers, they lived only a few years in Kentucky, they owned little or nothing and consequently, when they moved away they practically left nothing but the little one-room log cabin in which Abe was born, and which stands to day practically as it was in 1809, when the child was born. A son of Richard Greal is the County Judge of LaRue.

Mr. Hayes, the venerable owner of the comfortable little hotel in Hodgenville, told me that his ancestors knew the Lincolns very well. In speaking of them he said: "When the Lincolns lived here they spelled their name 'Linkhorn,' and my aunt, who was eighty-four years of age when she died, always referred to Mrs. Thomas Lincoln as 'Nancy Linkhorn.' She knew her very well. There seems to be no public record that Thomas Lincoln owned the place where he lived. People seem to think they were poor movers or squatters, but I have been told that Lincoln did agree to pay $200 for the farm, but was so poor that he could not raise the money and eventually left for Knob creek. For years the people about here had forgotten that Lincoln was born in their midst.

"When he was President he happened to say in an interview that he was born in a log cabin in LaRue county, and this called to mind the fact that the Lincolns who lived here were the parents of the President. I think almost every body had forgotten it. When the President was shot I remember my old aunt saying that she knew Nancy Linkhorn when her first baby was born. There is just one soul living around here who played with little Abe when he lived in Kentucky. That is uncle Austin Goliaker, who lives some miles out from Hodgenville on Knob creek. He is ninety-one years old, is possessed of all his senses and is 'mighty peart,' I can tell you. You had better go out and see him. He can tell you all about Abe. He is a very bright old man, and if he had had any opportunities would have made his mark in this world. When Robert Lincoln visited Louisville I went to see him. I cut a cane on the farm where his father was born and taking it with me I presented it to him at the Galt House. He received me very coolly, accepted the can very gingerly, had very little to say and with a good deal of embarrassment I was glad to be ushered out of his apartments."

A DYING SOLDIER.

Carries Water to his Enemy—An Incident of the Battle of Richmond, Ky.

William Wilkerson, who was for many years jailer of Fayette county related to a Lexington Leader contributor the following pathetic incident of heroism which he witnessed shortly after the battle at Richmond, Ky., in 1862:

"A son of my friend, Hon. Cassius M. Clay was killed in the fight at Richmond, and it was made my duty to visit the battlefield to identify the body and take it to his father's home. While riding slowly over the scene of the battle I heard groans, which I was sure came from a cornfield near at hand. Looking down the corn rows I soon discovered two wounded soldiers lying about forty yards apart. One was a Federal and the other a Confederate. A cannon ball had broken and terribly mangled both of the Confederate's legs, while the Federal was shot through the body and thigh.

"I am dying for water," I heard the Federal say just as I discovered them. His words sounded as if they came from a parched mouth.

"I have some water in my canteen. You are welcome to drink if you'll come here," said the Confederate, who had feebly raised his head from the ground to look at his late enemy when he heard his pitiful cry for water.

"I couldn't move to save my life," groaned the Federal, as he dropped his head to the ground, while his whole body quivered with agony.

"Then I beheld an act of heroism which held me spellbound until it was too late for me to give the assistance I should have rendered. The Confederate lifted his head again and took another look at his wounded foe and saw an expression of tender pity come over his pain-distorted face, as he said:

"Hold out a little longer, Yank, and I'll try to come to you." Then the brave fellow, by digging his fingers in the ground and catching hold of the corn stalks, painfully dragged himself to the Federal's side, the blood from his mangled legs making a red trail the entire distance. The tears ran down his cheeks like rain, and out of sympathy for him I groaned every time he moved, but was so lost to everything except the fellow's heroism that I did not once think of helping him.

"When the painful journey was finished he offered his canteen to the Federal, who took it and drank eagerly, the water seeming to sizzle as it passed down his parched throat. Then with a deep sigh of relief, he reached out to the Confederate, and it was plain to see as they clasped hands and looked into each other's eyes that whatever hate may have rankled once in the hearts of these men had now given place to natural sympathy and love. Even while I watched them I saw the Confederate's body tremble as if in a spasm of pain, and when his head dropped to the ground I knew that a hero had crossed the dark river. The Federal kissed the dead hero's hand repeatedly, and cried like a child until I had him removed to the hospital, where he, too, died the next day."

Badly Needed Invention Suggested by the Copy Reader.
"I shall be famous. I have an idea that will send my name thundering down through the ages," remarked the copy reader.
"Humph," replied the humorist.
"It will be the first idea you ever had. You spend most of your time destroying the good ideas of others."

"Well, that may be; although you never have any idea to destroy, seeing as you get those which you have from Joe Miller's joke book and the old almanacs."

"Oh, well, let's have your idea."

"To tell the truth, it was suggested to me by you."

"Ah! I thought as much, and yet you say—"

"Don't be in too big a hurry. You haven't heard my idea."

"What is it?"

"I have invented a punctuation mark for humor. It is intended to show the reader where to laugh. In olden times, you know, the point of the joke used to be printed in italics. Nowadays there is no way to show the point, and as many of the jokes, such as yours, have no point it is impossible to print the point in italics. Now I suggest that a punctuation mark be placed at the beginning and at the end of everything supposed to be funny, so that the reader may be prepared to laugh when he begins to read and know when he has reached the point and it is time to laugh. It would be used like quotation marks. I would suggest that the mark be two little squares placed above the line, and I shall call it by my name. What do you think of that for an idea? It was suggested by your stuff, as I told you."

But the humorist had given the copy reader a look of scorn and had vanished.—Chicago Times-Herald.

—Useless at Home.—"What was all the rumpus in the next flat?"

"It was that football rasher's wife trying to get him to walk the baby to sleep."—Detroit Free Press.

—Bad milk is bad because it contains an undue proportion of casein; while the allowance of sugar and butter is disproportionately small.
